Laurence and Patrick Seguin, founders of Galerie Patrick Seguin in Paris, have been ardent collectors of Jean Prouvé's adventurous 20th-century works since the late 1980s. This bilingual publication is an expanded edition of the volume first published in 2013, during which an exhibition organized with Pinacoteca Giovanni e Marella Agnelli opened in tandem. This sequel further probes the gallerists' robust trove, including the well-known Métropole and Cité armchairs that straddle furniture and art with their gleaming metal elements. Rarely seen prototypes and previously unpublished archive drawings plunge readers deeper into Prouvé's world.
